Ludwig Coenen
Green Movement
with Metalogic & XI remixes

Frankfurt collides with Toronto as Thoughtless welcomes three new artists to the fold. Hailing from Germany, Ludwig Coenen's EPs for Highgrade, Immigrant, Subconce and others have solidified his stance as an innovative producer on the rise. Expressing a deep dancefloor motive, his smooth yet heady blend of house and techno unfolds with rolling percussion, muted vocal textures and hypnotic bleeps on 'Red Paper'. 'Green Movement' raises the stakes with a slow-burning arrangement woven with mesmerizing electronics that culminate in its infectious synth-stab motif. With recent releases on Hidden Agenda and Perc Trax gaining momentum, Toronto's Metalogic melt down the contents of the original and pour them into a slick metallic mold, resulting in a liquid funk techno fusion designed to keep the dancefloor in motion long past bed time. XI's cuts for Lo Dubs, Off Road and Aufect have been crushing soundsystems from coast to coast, and his 'Dangerous Technology' mix of 'Green Movement' is no exception, diving bass tones and clattering cymbals combining for ruthless dubstep destruction - while his 'Bass Vapour' bonus dub closes things out with an electro-tinged stepper that stays true to the deeper elements of the original. Is it possible to be green and thoughtless? It would seem so...
