Pete Grove

Still No Relief

The Remixes

thoughtless 033

Following up the vocal tech-house decimation of Pete Grove's No Relief on TLMo29, Thoughtless presents a squadron of remixes from some of our favorite artists, each presenting a unique take on the original. Bringing Pete's synth work to the fore, Pan/Tone drops an upfront club-friendly rework, while Rennie Foster's Drifting Dub weaves a single lyric of the original into a mesmerizing Berghain bomb with a breakdown to die for. Noah Pred amplifies the housier textures along with a fresh bass line on his two takes - one featuring the vocals prominently, the other leaving them out altogether. Meanwhile, Toronto's Arthur Oskan drives us into deep techno territory replete with trademark chords, and Nitin gives us a low-slung analog take for the after-hours. Finally, West Coast tandem Daega Sound System deliver an exhilarating dubstep reconstruction, with Pete Grove's own Breakwater project closing things out with a murky two-step re-rub sure to leave its mark. As if the original release wasn't relentless enough, this varied collection of remixes proves there's just no relief...
